theologian ian mcfarland claims that christians have mainly misappropriated the image of god language for 2000 years and thereby missed a rich resource for our knowledge of god what then does it mean to say that we are made in god s image or that christ is the very image or prototype of god rather than referring to some germinal divine element in humans such as reason mcfarland claims that the image of god in us tells us something about god and how we know god it tells us that god though not identical with us communicates godself to us in creative love in a way that offers precious clues about god s transcendence immanence triune life self disclosure incarnation and intentions for human life too we learn from jesus something new about god gathered as christ s body the church too images god and sets us on a quest to discern the image of god in christ s incarnate body mcfarland s careful and exacting work builds from this kernel a powerful christian vision of god s life and our own destiny in christ this book argues that christians have a stake in the sustainability and success of core cultural values of the west in general and america in particular steven m studebaker considers western and american decline from a theological and specifically pentecostal perspective the volume proposes and develops a pentecostal political theology that can be used to address and reframe christian political identity in the united states studebaker asserts that american christians are currently not properly engaged in preventing america s decline or halting the shifts in its core values the problem he suggests is that american christianity not only gives little thought to the state of the nation beyond a handful of moral issues like abortion but its popular political theologies lead christians to think of themselves more as aliens than as citizens this book posits that the proposed pentecostal political theology would help american christians view themselves as citizens and better recognize their stake in the renewal of their nation the foundation of this proposed political theology is a pneumatological narrative of renewal a biblical narrative of the spirit that begins with creation proceeds through incarnation and pentecost and culminates in the new creation and everlasting kingdom of god this narrative provides the foundation for a political theology that speaks to the issues of christian political identity and encourages christian political participation
